ONLINE SAFETY

YouTube Kids

One of the biggest frustrations from parents of younger children is that the content on YouTube Kids is too childish or the content isn't what their children want to watch. The end result is that only a tiny minority of young children use YouTube Kids, with the majority on the main YouTube site.

A feature that has been within YouTube Kids for years, but so very few parents know about, is called 'Parent Allowlisting'. This does a number of things, but one of the most important and useful is that parents can keep their younger children within the safer environment of the Kids app, and parents can approve individual videos from the main YouTube service to that particular child's YouTube Kids account. This keeps younger children away from the dreaded recommender algorithms and allows parents to moderate what their children can or cannot see.

I have linked a short video which is on YouTube to explain what Parent Allowlisting is and how it's used:

What is Monetisation

Monetisation is how content creators earn money through social media and video-sharing platforms, with some creators using dishonest practices to receive more activity on their posts.

Internet Matters have put together a brilliant information guide and you can find the link below.

Starting the Conversation

The Family Online Safety Institute (FOSI) have produced a great new, simple guide aimed at helping parents start those conversations which can be very difficult. This is specifically for young people rather than teenagers as it covers online dating safety, digital consent and boundaries.

SCIENCE FAIR

Get ready to unleash your inner scientist for British Science Week!

With this year's British Science Week topic on 'Curiosity: What's Your Question?', we are inviting all children to take part in our Home Science Competition.

This is your chance to follow your own interests and investigate a curiosity question that fascinates you. Whether it's space, plants, or chemical reactions, we want to see your discoveries!

Key Dates:

- Deadline: All projects must be handed in by Friday 20th March 2026.
- Winners: A special winner will be announced and receive their certificate in assembly on Monday 23rd March 2026.

But the fun doesn't stop there! Everyone is welcome to bring their projects back for our Summer Fayre to showcase their hard work to the whole community.
