ONLINE SAFETY

The Online Safety Act: Are Children Safer Online?

This is a new report from Internet Matters using data from surveys and focus groups offering a few of how new online safety rules are shaping families lives.

It's a very interesting report, e.g.:

- Seven in 10 children and parents report seeing more safety features such as ways to report and filter content.
- Around half of children have been asked to verify their age on platforms.
- 54% of children report that the content they have seen online recently is more child-friendly.

But:

- Almost half of children think age checks are easy to bypass (fake birthday, drawing on facial hair).
- A quarter of parents have allowed their child to bypass age checks.
- Almost half of children say they have experienced harm online in the past month.

How to Talk to Children if they see Traumatic Events

Many children will have seen or heard some of the horrific events that have been happening recently. Whether that's on the news, someone discussing it, or perhaps online, children can be traumatised by what they are seeing and hearing.

This article from The Conversation discusses the issue and gives some really good advice.
